

A BETTER LIFE THROUGH AUTHENTIC CONNECTION

Harrison

Hi, my name is Harrison. I was diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) as a child. With the support of mentors, therapists, and caregivers, I learned to appreciate my strengths and weaknesses, focusing on personal growth.

Without their help, I might have struggled to manage daily life. Their compassionate care gave me hope and boosted my self-esteem, significantly impacting my journey.

As the caregiving field evolves with new advancements and treatments, it remains a dynamic and rewarding sector. My goal as a caregiver is to meet my clients where they are, building trust and connection through shared experiences.

My clients are my top priority, and I develop care plans tailored to their needs, ensuring participation, enjoyment, and independence while minimizing risks. I have released music, composed and perform professionally as a solo performer. Listening to music, explaining how it works or just dancing for the fun of it are incredibly beneficial, enjoyable and therapeutic. Having taught music and studied it thoroughly, I enjoy pedagogical music practices, helping others foray into music and getting involved in their local scene too.

I strive to provide exceptional care that creates a more inclusive and supportive future for individuals facing challenges. I want my clients to engage in meaningful activities in a welcoming environment and feel confident in themselves and their connections. In my mentoring approach, I emphasize being present and utilizing resources to enhance quality of life and promote independence, fostering self-esteem. Together, we can create an authentic life and provide authentic support.
